The Fog James Herbert

The Fog is a horror novel by English writer James Herbert, published in 1975. It is about a deadly fog that drives its victims insane when they come into contact with it. Herbert's second book, it is completely unrelated to the film The Fog by John Carpenter.

The Fog (novel) - Wikipedia

Herbert's The Fog is one of the finest British horror novels of the 70's. From the thrilling opening, in which an inexplicable earthquake rips apart a small English community to the slow and steady progression of the nebulous fog that doggedly advances upon London's teeming millions, this short novel strikes like a blade to the heart.

The Fog: Herbert, James, Campbell, Ramsey: 9781933618661 ...

The Fog is an excellent horror novel, expertly with James Herberts matter of fact style which only adds to the horror within its pages. The authors writing style does not leave anything for the readers imagination, instead chooses to describe horrid scenes in full detail. The Fog is the story about a man made contagion that drives people mad.

The Fog - James Herbert. NEL - 1980 (First published 1975) A poison cloud erupts from under the ground and causes the people who inhale it to go crazy. As it spreads it becomes more powerful, and it goes from driving a few isolated individuals to acts of sadistic violence to bringing the city of London to an apocalyptic hellscape.

The Fog - James Herbert - Nocturnal Revelries

As a teenager, I loved James Herbert's books. 30 years later The Fog was not as good as I remembered it. Herbert must have been a closet homosexual on account of the fact he spends so much time talking about penises; this guy's penis, that guy's penis, all the boy's penises. More fog, less penis for me please.
